

Wayne Caswell, MS, CLS (NCA), TS (ABB)

Senior Director for Professional Education and Client Support for CooperSurgical
Scientific Director Donor Egg Bank USA

Wayne is the Senior Director for Professional Education and Client Support for CooperSurgical in the America's. He is also Scientific Director Donor Egg Bank USA which is part of CooperSurgical. Wayne is passionate about Continuous Quality Improvement with focus on superior outcomes for all our patients and recipients. Prior to focusing on the Sciences he served as an Army Officer earning the Rank of Captain, specializing in Armored Cavalry operations. He did his undergraduate studies at University of Massachusetts Dartmouth and his graduate studies at Marine Biological Laboratories, Woods Hole MA and Earned a Master's Degree from Eastern Virginia Medical School, Norfolk , VA.

Wayne has led multiple IVF and Andrology Laboratories in Boston, Maine and New York. He also was the first Technical Application Scientist with Irvine Scientific where he established himself as an expert in Human oocyte and embryo vitrification. Known as a strong leader who consistently delivers solid results. Wayne has spoken at conferences in the US, Europe and South America on the topics of Assisted Reproduction and Cryopreservation. He is currently also on the Board of Directors for the Society for Reproductive Biologists and Technologist as part of ASRM. Wayne's Wife is a Professor of Nursing at a private University and he has 2 sons who are also following in the areas of Laboratory sciences in Biochemistry and Bioinformatics.